as opposed to those who are content to live in silos. Maybe Bishop Doyle's book is calling on us Episcopalians to re-image – to rethink how we as beings-in-the-world can learn how to live together as Christians in these truly tumultuous times

First Christian, then Citizen

It would seem as though the election season is finally at an end – praise God. But the fractures will remain for a while to come, with some among us wondering what conversations will be like at the Thanksgiving Day family gatherings this year. Will some family members fail to show up, blaming their absence on COVID-19? The polarization that we experienced in 2020, have now put in peril certain customs and norms that have stood the test of time. How sad!!

I came across this interesting and certainly provocative article that warrants my sharing with you. It is a commentary and review by Nathaniel Warne on a recent publication by Bishop Andy Doyle in which he challenges Christians to talk about politics. The book is entitled – Citizen: Faithful Discipleship in a Partisan World. Bishop Doyle argues that schools, political parties, media, and not Christians, have shaped the debates and defined what it means to be a citizen. These institutions feed us “political agendas” packaged as Christianity and we unreflectively accept and internalize what is offered. As a result, the line between being an American and being Christian has become blurred. Christians, Bishop Doyle argues, must first be Christians, then citizens.

One of the strengths of this publication, Warne argues, is that this book helpfully teases out the distinction between an American civil religion, which often has a “family resemblance” to Christianity, and a biblically centered understanding of citizenship and political participation. American civil religion Bishop Doyle opines is really “moral therapeutic deism, which advances individualism and nihilistic power while simultaneously encouraging polarities like Democratic and Republican; liberal and conservative.” Warne complains that the Bishop makes several unsupported claims such as taking the Trinity as a starting point for conceiving his theological anthropology (image of God). He departs from the current understanding of the image of God as relational, vocational and incarnational and Instead makes a suggestion that freedom connects the Trinity (Father, Son and Holy Spirit) and Christian citizenship! This approach is problematic since so much recent political turmoil has centered around conflicting conceptions of freedom, with many appealing to freedom as a justification to endanger the lives of others – we have seen too much of this recently. Warne concludes that that we certainly need to articulate what a Christian idea of freedom is and how it relates to political decision making. What some of us feel free to do may prove injurious to those who do not share that perception – think of the open carry debate! Warne however finds some redemptive ideas in this publication. He draws attention to the idea of the Bishop that we all hold a mirror up to ourselves so we can see how we have allowed political ideologies to possibly corrupt our relationship with fellow Christians. Indeed Christian Citizenship comes without the labels of left or right or Democratic or Republican. We belong to a God who sees us all as his children, living together in love and harmony,

A Reading from the Book of Judges 4:1-7

The Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, after Ehud died. So the Lord sold them into the hand of King Jabin of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor; the commander of his army was Sisera, who lived in Haroshethpha-goiim. Then the Israelites cried out to the Lord for help; for he had nine hundred chariots of iron, and had oppressed the Israelites cruelly twenty years. At that time Deborah, a prophetess, wife of Lappidoth, was judging Israel. She used to sit under the palm of Deborah between Ramah and Bethel in the hill country of Ephraim; and the Israelites came up to her for judgment. She sent and summoned Barak son of Abinoam from Kedesh in Naphtali, and said to him, “The Lord, the God of Israel, commands you, ‘Go, take position at Mount Tabor, bringing ten thousand from the tribe of Naphtali and the tribe of Zebulun. I will draw out Sisera, the general of Jabin’s army, to meet you by the Wadi Kishon with his chariots and his troops; and I will give him into your hand.”

The Word of the Lord

People Thanks be to God.

Psalm 123

1.To you I lift up my eyes,*

To you enthroned in the heavens.

2.As the eyes of servants look to the hand of their masters,* and the eyes

3. so our eyes look to the Lord our God,* until he show us his mercy

4. Have mercy upon us, O Lord, have mercy,*

for we have had more than enough of contempt.

5.Too much of the scorn of the indolent rich,* and of the derision of the proud.

The Celebrant proceeds

It is right, and a good and joyful thing, always and everywhere to give thanks to you, Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth. Therefore we praise you, joining our voices with Angels and Archangels and with all the company of heaven, who forever sing this hymn to proclaim the glory of your Name.

Celebrant and People

Sanctus

Holy, holy, holy Lord, Lord God of power and might, heaven and earth are full of your glory. Hosanna in the highest. Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord. Hosanna in the highest.

(The people stand or kneel)

Celebrant continues

Holy and gracious Father: In your infinite love you made us for yourself; and, when we had fallen into sin and become subject to evil and death, you, in your mercy sent Jesus Christ, your only and eternal Son, to share our human nature, to live and die as one of us, to reconcile us to you, the God and Father of all.

He stretched out his arms upon the cross, and offered himself, in obedience to your will, a perfect sacrifice for the whole world.

On the night he was handed over to suffering and death, our Lord Jesus Christ took bread; and when he had given thanks to you, he broke it, and gave it to his disciples, and said, “Take, eat: This is my Body, which is given for you. Do this for the remembrance of me.”

After supper he took the cup of wine; and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, and said, “Drink this, all of you: This is my Blood of the new Covenant, which is shed for you and for many for the forgiveness of sins. Whenever you drink it, do this for the remembrance of me.”

Therefore we proclaim the mystery of faith:

Celebrant and People

Christ has died. Christ has risen. Christ will come again.

The Celebrant continues

We celebrate the memorial of our redemption, O Father, in this sacrifice of praise and thanksgiving. Recalling his death, resurrection, and ascension, we offer you these gifts.

The Peace

Let there be peace on earth, and let it begin with me.

Let there be peace on earth, the peace that was meant to be. With God as our Father, brothers all are we, family

Let me walk with my brother in perfect harmony. Let peace begin with me; let us each other this be the moment now. With every step I take, let this be my solemn vow; To take each moment, and live each moment in peace eternally! Let there be peace on earth, and let it begin with me.

Father, we offer you these gifts which you have given us; this bread, this wine, this money. With them we offer ourselves, our lives, and our work, to become through your Holy Spirit, a reasonable, holy and lively sacrifice. As this bread and wine become the Body and Blood of Christ, so may we and all your people become channels of your love; through the same Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Reading from Paul's First Epistle to the Thessalonians – 5:1-11

Now concerning the times and the seasons, brothers and sisters, you do not need to have anything written to you. For you yourselves know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. When they say, "There is peace and security," then sudden destruction will come upon them, as labor pains come upon a pregnant woman, and there will be no escaped! But you, beloved, are not in darkness, for that day to surprise you like a thief; for you are all children of light and children of the day; we are not of the night or of darkness. So then let us not fall asleep as others do, but let us keep awake and be sober; for those who sleep sleep at night, and those who are drunk get drunk at night. But since we belong to the day, let us be sober, and put on the breastplate of faith and love, and for a helmet the hope of salvation. For God has destined us not for wrath but for obtaining salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, who died for us, so that whether we are awake, or asleep we may live with him. Therefore encourage one another and build up each other, as indeed you are doing.

The Word of the Lord

People    Thanks be to God

Gradual Hymn:            H512 v 1, Come gracious Spirit, Heavenly Dove                      Mendon

Come, gracious Spirit, heavenly Dove, with light and comfort from above; be thou our guardian, thou our guide o'er every thought and step preside.
